A True Rescue Story

Marlene, a neglected and severely underweight dog, needed to be saved. The Cleveland APL's Chief Humane Investigator rescued the 1-year-old Boxer mix from a yard where she had no access to water and appeared to have an upper respiratory infection. Clearly, she needed a family to love her. But as fate would have it, the family who ultimately adopted her needed Marlene just as much.

to the Cleveland APL so they could meet Marlene together. When Marlene was brought into the room, Jennifer said,

"she immediately went to my husband and they played fetch and she kissed him like she knew he was the one she had to impress."

It worked. "He asked her if she wanted to come home with us and I will never forget when she put her paws on his chest and barked at him. She wanted to go home."

Jennifer Browning and her family were not planning on adopting a dog, but an e-mail she received in April about our upcoming Pledge for Pets Radiothon led Jennifer to our website, where she saw a photo of a very skinny Marlene on our Adoptions page. She pitched the idea of adopting Marlene to her family—her kids voted yes, but her husband voted no.

That day Marlene, renamed Minnie, went to her new home, where she met the family's other dog, 4-year-old Boxer Lily. "Immediately the dogs kissed and wrestled and played as if they were always there together," Jennifer recalled. "Lily had been depressed for the past year and a half since our other Boxer passed, and Minnie has made her active again. Not only did we save Minnie, but I believe Minnie saved Lily."

Jennifer, however, wasn't ready to give up. She convinced her husband to come

Letter from the CEO

In the last issue of Pet Patter, I wrote about the importance of working together toward the one and only outcome that will make the greatest, most sustainable difference for homeless animals ... creating a no-kill community. In a no-kill community, private humane societies, municipal shelters, rescue groups, lawmakers, AND very importantly, individual residents all understand and embrace their unique roles in reducing euthanasia at shelters and saving the lives of homeless animals. They also team up whenever possible.

At the Cleveland APL, we've put in place a number of programs that are designed not only to increase opportunities for teamwork between our organization and other organizations, but also between our organization and caring members of our community. One of those programs is our Foster-to-Surrender (FtS) program. Funded by a grant from the ASPCA® and implemented as a pilot program in 2010, it was designed to further engage Good Samaritans who are trying to bring in animals who we are going to struggle to help—for instance, animals with contagious diseases who we have nowhere to shelter without risking the well-being of our existing residents. A vast majority of these animals are kittens. Through the FtS program, we now ask these people to help a little bit more by taking the animal(s) back home for a couple of weeks, fostering them, and treating them so they can come back in healthy and ready to go up for adoption. In exchange for their effort and compassion, we provide all the food, litter, supplies, and most importantly, medication they need, along with our undying gratitude.

The program took a while to catch on. At first people thought we were a little bit nuts when we asked if they would take the animals they were trying to surrender to us back home for a while! But once they understood the need, the realities, and what a lifesaving difference they could make, they joined the team! In the first year, more than 190 animals who we might not have been able to help before received care thanks to the FtS program and the 94 people who embraced their lifesaving role. By the end of 2011, the program's second full year, 111 wonderful people had helped us to save nearly 270 deserving animals. Already this year, the program is hopping! I don't know about you, but for me this is the epitome of lifesaving teamwork and another step taken toward building a truly no-kill community.

We thank the ASPCA® for taking a chance and providing the start-up funding that allowed us to give this innovative program a try. Now that the results are in, I'm delighted to report that the more than 460 animals who are happy and healthy today thanks to the FtS program have cast their unanimous votes to keep it going – and that's certainly our plan! All we need now is for you to continue to support the Cleveland APL through general donations so that the FtS program and a host of other lifesaving programs will live on ... along with the animals they serve!

Since her adoption in April, Minnie has put on much-needed weight and is enjoying the life she deserves. She loves car rides, eating ice cubes, playing tug-of-war with Lily and cuddling. She also knows several commands and is working on learning more.

Noting that her husband was initially against adopting a shelter dog, Jennifer hopes her family's story will persuade others to adjust their thinking. "Please," she said. "If you are considering getting a new pet, give shelter animals a chance. They have so much love to give, especially since they may have not have been given the best start in life, like Minnie."

Living The Good Life

Snowball had gone through a tough time—and it showed. The 10-year-old white cat hadn't been properly cared for since one of his owners died and the other became seriously ill.

Snowball had such severe ear mites that his ears had become painful and deformed. Fortunately, Snowball's owner agreed to surrender him to one of our humane investigators, who brought him to the Cleveland APL last September.

Our veterinary team gave Snowball the medical attention he needed and before long he was on our cat adoption floor. Although his ears looked odd, there was nothing wrong with Snowball's hearing. Besides that, he was a really sweet cat.

Elizabeth McCluskey recalled her reaction when she saw Snowball in one of our cat playrooms. Because she uses a wheelchair and makes her home in an assisted-living facility, she wanted an older cat. She also was looking for one that might have a hard time getting adopted. "His ears looked punched in and he had been shaved," she said. "I thought, 'If I don't take this cat, nobody else will.'"

Snowball went to his new home that day last November and spent the first six days hiding. Eventually he surfaced, and once he had his first treat, he was through hiding. There have been a couple of missteps along the way, like the time he somehow set off Elizabeth's in-suite alarm. It's hard to say who was more surprised—Elizabeth or the maintenance man who showed up to respond to the "emergency." But all in all, Snowball has adjusted very well.

Snowball spends his days watching the birds out the window and sleeping, occasionally curling up with a catnip-filled toy mouse that Elizabeth says he holds to his chest like a baby. He lets her know when he needs food, water or attention and Elizabeth, who affectionately described Snowball as "thoroughly spoiled," gladly complies.

Making a Difference

2013 Annual Pet Calendar

The Cleveland APL's 2013 Pet Calendar will be available for sale beginning on November 5th. The cover of our centennial calendar ... yes, you heard it right, we'll be 100 years old in 2013 ... will feature Maddie and Dakota. Maddie and Dakota's Mom and Dad just happen to be Cleveland Browns Offensive Lineman Joe Thomas and his wife, Annie. The photo shoot for the cover is done by Pulitzer Prize-winning Associated Press Photographer Amy Sancetta and is one of our live auction items at the APL's annual Cold Noses, Warm Hearts – Fur Ball gala.

The calendar will make a great gift for your animal-loving family and friends. After November 5th, the calendar can be previewed online at www.ClevelandAPL.org. It will be available for sale at the APL's Adoption Center or you can purchase it online at www.ClevelandAPL.org or by calling 216-377-1628.

Don't miss the chance for your furry friend to be featured in the 2014 calendar. Enter online at www.ClevelandAPL.org or call 216-377-1628 for more information.

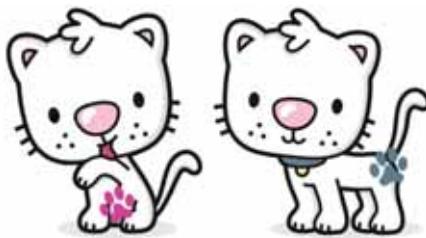

Operation Nip-Tuck

On Saturday, June 2, as the Cleveland APL was holding a reduced-fee cat adoption promotion to cope with the kitten population explosion that happens every spring, a proactive solution to the same problem was taking place about a mile away.

Operation Nip-Tuck provided free spay/neuter surgeries for cats in Cleveland's Tremont, Ohio City and Slavic Village neighborhoods. A total of 98 cats were spayed/neutered during the event at the Cleveland City Kennel, which was funded by a grant from the ASPCA®. Sterilizing nearly 100 cats in just one day will prevent the births of hundreds more unwanted, homeless kittens in the months and years ahead.

Operation Nip-Tuck was led by Amy Beichler and Amanda Butts of the Public Animal Welfare Society of Ohio (PAWS) and made possible by a collaboration among PAWS, the Cleveland APL, Stautzenberger College, the Cleveland City Kennel, and Cleveland City Councilmen Tony Brancatelli and Joe Cimperman, not to mention a legion of incredible volunteers!

Another Happy Tale

A Home for Sweet Sadie

Just when Tami Graham thought her animal family was complete – two cats and a dog, all healthy and all compatible – she met Sadie. The 11-year-old Chow Chow mix had been surrendered to the Cleveland APL a few weeks earlier because her owner moved and couldn't bring her along.

Tami and her son had come to the shelter to interview for positions in our volunteer program, but they spotted Sadie through the glass door to our dog adoption floor and couldn't resist going in to say hello. After reading Sadie's bio on her kennel, Tami was even more taken with her but still unsure about adding to her own family. Noting that Sadie had a wonderful disposition and was already housetrained Tami thought she would make a perfect first dog for one of her co-workers.

The woman came to meet Sadie and thought she was great, but she couldn't persuade her husband to adopt an older dog with arthritis. Meanwhile, Tami couldn't get Sadie out of her mind. She recalled that while she had waited in the lobby for her interview to start, "I could see her in her cage through the door and I could swear she was watching me the whole time and she was saying 'aren't you going to take me home?'"

Tami and her son talked about it, and once Tami checked with her dog sitter and was assured he would be willing to watch two dogs, the decision was made. Tami and her son came back to the Cleveland APL and brought Sadie home.

"Our animals (dog Lucy and cats Mario and Mimi) were not sure about the whole thing at first," Tami said. "But everyone has adjusted really well. Sadie got right into the groove of our schedule and is the sweetest dog."

Sadie makes friends with everyone, Tami said, and gets along with the other animals, although she has quickly learned the "don't chase the cat" command. In addition, Tami said, Sadie has "perked up" since the veterinarian suggested she go on glucosamine for her arthritis.

"I think we both lucked out," Tami said. "She gets to be spoiled and have a nice home and I get to have a very loving, sweet dog."

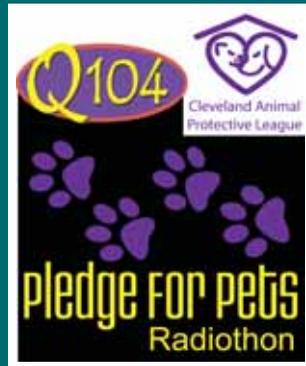

Sadie relaxes on the couch.

Radiothon and Rockin' Rescue

Fee's Kompany, Q104's morning show team, had plenty of company as we celebrated the 7th Annual Pledge for Pets Radiothon May 13-14 at the Cleveland APL. Allan Fee, Katherine Boyd and Glenn Anderson hosted the 18-hour live broadcast, which raised nearly $121,000 to help homeless animals.

For the second consecutive year, we held a Rockin' Rescue adoption promotion in conjunction with Radiothon. This year's promo resulted in the adoption of 71 animals—39 cats, 31 dogs and one Guinea pig.

During 18 hours on the air, Fee's Kompany, along with guests including Cleveland APL staff members, volunteers and adopters, shared heartwarming, real-life stories that captured the spirit of the Cleveland APL's mission, our animals and the special people who rescue, rehabilitate and care for them.

Over the past seven years, the Pledge for Pets Radiothon has raised $936,000 for the animals at the Cleveland APL. We are so grateful to Allan, Katherine, Glenn and the entire Q104 team for their continued commitment and compassion in engaging their listeners to open their hearts to our animals.

Leading up to the Radiothon, APL supporters signed up to be Q Cash Captains, Kids or Schools and collected donations for the APL's animals from their families, friends and co-workers. We were so grateful again this year to have Travis Hafner of the Cleveland Indians and his wife, Amy, sponsor our Q Cash Kids program and to have Joe Thomas of the Cleveland Browns and his wife and APL board member, Annie, sponsor our Q Cash School program.

Our top fund-raising school was Messiah Lutheran School in Fairview Park, where Mrs. Moennich's fourth-grade class collected $700. To celebrate their fund-raising efforts, the students won an assembly at their school with Joe and Annie Thomas and Fee's Kompany.

Save the date! The 8th Annual Q104 Pledge for Pets Radiothon will take place Friday and Saturday, May 10 and 11, 2013.

WQAL - Q104 - Duck Pond and High Striker

For again choosing the APL to be the beneficiary of funds raised from its booth at The 21st Annual Marc's Great American Rib Cook-Off & Music Festival held Memorial Day weekend. Participants vied for prizes by picking a toy duck from a pool of water or hitting the bell at the top of the high striker. Our wonderful APL volunteers worked at the booth, helping us to raise much needed funds for the animals.

Thanks to the generosity and efforts of everyone involved in these events, more than $5,600 was raised to help the Cleveland APL and our animals.

Thank You Cleveland Indians...

for hosting the 3rd Annual Puppypalooza—the first of two this year—at Progressive Field to benefit the Cleveland APL.

It was a tail-wagging party at the baseball game on Wednesday, May 16, when the Cleveland Indians took on the Seattle Mariners at Progressive Field. Just before the game, all the pooches and their people paraded around the warning track on the field and then enjoyed the game from the Party Deck—and it sure was a party.

More than 600 dogs and their people cheered on the Indians, who beat the Mariners 9-3. The event raised $1,765 for the Cleveland APL. It was a victory for everyone!

Did You Know?

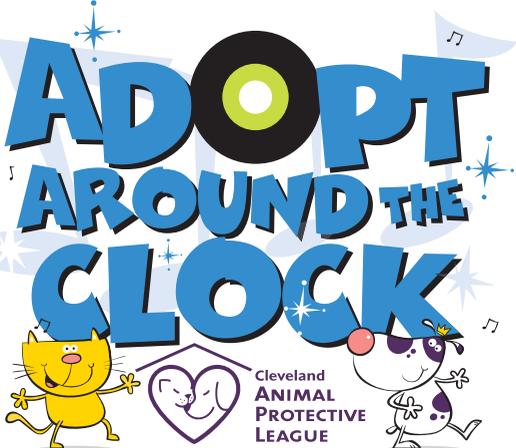

Adopt Around the Clock

The Cleveland APL has held many adoption events, even a couple of “super” adoption events. But this month, we are taking part in a “mega” adoption event.

“Adopt Around the Clock” will take place at the Parma PetSmart store, 6870 Ridge Road, from 5 p.m. Friday, September 7, until 5 p.m. Saturday, September 8 ... yes, that’s all night long!

The Cleveland APL is one of several regional shelters and rescue groups participating in the event, made possible by a grant from PetSmart Charities. Together we have established a goal of finding homes for 300 animals during this 24-hour effort. But we need you to make our goal a reality. Please join us!

Marathon Cheering Section

The Cleveland APL celebrated being included on the route for this year’s Rite Aid Cleveland Marathon by forming a “Bark Squad.”

As marathon and 10-K participants passed by our shelter along Mile 9, the Bark Squad, made up of Adoptions Supervisor Jacky Jones, a dozen volunteers, and even a few adoptable dogs, cheered them on. Some of the runners and walkers replied by shouting that they had adopted their pets from us and/or barking on their way past.

The Bark Squad cheers from the sidelines.

Rachelle Farren

We also offered a reward to all adopters who participated in the race on Sunday, May 20. For the rest of the month, runners and walkers received $1 off adoption fees for every mile they completed.

Fun Facts to Know And Tell About Your Cleveland APL

The Cleveland APL's Volunteer Program began in 2004 with six volunteers. By the end of 2011, our program boasted nearly 800 volunteers!

When space permits, the Cleveland APL transfers in dogs from overcrowded shelters. Last year approximately 1,000 dogs came to us through our Dog Transfer Program.

Tributes

The following tribute gifts were received between March 2012 and May 2012.

A gift of $50 or more is recognized in Pet Patter.
