Smokey and Lady: A Happily-Ever- After for Two

Cleveland APL Humane Investigations officers rescued Smokey and Lovey, along with nearly a dozen other dogs, from less-than-ideal conditions. The five-year-old Rottweiler mixes showed clear signs of neglect: Their coats were dirty and smelly, their nails overgrown, and Smokey's skin was infected. They received medical attention and both dogs were fixed. The surgery itself went well, but during recovery Lovey struggled. She showed signs of stress—even pulling out the metal bars on the kennel door in the recovery area! The team that was caring for her wisely decided to reunite her with Smokey, and that did the trick. Lovey calmed down immediately. Both animals were so much less fearful when they were together. It was decided that if at all possible, the two should be adopted together. They would be considered a “bonded pair.”

Humans Patrick and Patti are familiar with the benefits of being a “bonded pair.” Married for 32 years, the couple raised six boys in a house full of noise and life. In fact, one of their sons introduced Patrick and Patti to the APL, when he brought home a dog six years ago. In summer 2015, that dog passed away. With only one son left at home and two away at college, the house was very quiet.

Patrick decided to surprise Patti with a dog for Christmas. He saw a picture of Lovey, who resembled the dog they had loved and lost. His sons went to the APL to meet her. They discovered that Lovey and Smokey were a bonded pair. Fortunately, this didn't dissuade them; it just doubled the surprise! Patti describes the Christmas Eve introduction. “I had my back turned when they brought

Letter from the President & CEO

In our last Pet Patter, I shared the beginning of Davey Jones' story. Here's the rest of his story.

Just before New Year's, I came upon a wee, frightened, brown dog with a silly tail and pleading brown eyes in one of our adoption cages. He was one of 22 animals we transferred in from an awful hoarding situation in southern Ohio. A sign was posted on the outside of his cage informing passersby that our veterinarian wanted him to go to a foster home where his mobility could be better assessed. She was trying to make a decision about his need for a knee surgery. He certainly wasn't walking very well, and if that wasn't enough, he also was malnourished, had significant hair loss, horrible skin, and only two teeth. He was what we lovingly call a "hot mess." I decided to foster him and promptly started calling him Wilbur—because he looked like a Wilbur.

There was a time when our foster program was pretty much limited to helping moms and their litters or kittens and puppies who needed somewhere comfortable to go until they were big enough to be sterilized and put up for adoption. With the growth of our Second Chance Program, our foster program expanded to include animals recovering from illnesses, injuries, or surgery and who needed a more comfortable place to convalesce than a cage in a shelter. And, as the Second Chance Program continues to expand its reach by providing increasingly advanced levels of care, our foster families are doing the same.

My experience as Wilbur's foster parent truly reflects how far our program has come—and he's only one example. It turns out his knees were the least of his concerns. Wilbur also had a dislocated rib and an old shoulder fracture that never healed properly. He was started on pain medication and it helped. He still wasn't winning any races, but he was starting to gain strength and get around better. Then suddenly one morning, Wilbur couldn't walk. He couldn't even get up. The diagnosis was a bulging disc. Our Head of Veterinary Services, Dr. Allison Lash, put him on a more aggressive course of medication to reduce the inflammation and pain. She also arranged a consult with Dr. Neal Sivula at the Dancing Paws Animal Wellness Center to add a holistic approach to Wilbur's traditional treatment plan that would further optimize his mobility and pain management. Within a day, Wilbur was up and around again, and within two days, he was scampering and learning how to climb stairs. We've had a couple of relapses, but each was short and remedied by tweaking his treatment.

When I first wrote about Wilbur, I wasn't sure how his story would play out. Truth be told, there was a time when I began to mentally prepare for the possibility that I was providing him with palliative care. But instead, despite what initially seemed like daunting medical challenges, his time in a foster home allowed us to see that Wilbur could have a good quality of life with the right care. Sure, he's going to be a dog whose medication will constantly need to be adjusted, it makes him pee a lot so he wears a diaper, and his veterinarian will be on speed dial, but he's happy and full of life.

That brings me to the next chapter in his story. After everything we had been through, it was clear that Wilbur and I should take the rest of his journey together. Wilbur Harvey now has three canine siblings at home who he bosses around, many soft beds, a pile of stuffed toys that he delights in moving to new locations around the house—one at a time, and a mom who absolutely adores him.

Thanks to our incredible team and your amazing support, Wilbur and so many others like him are thriving. His journey is his own, but his story is no longer unique at the Cleveland APL. You have made that possible.

them in, but I could hear the pitter-patter of feet across the floor. I looked at my husband and asked, "What did you do?" My son replied, "They are brother and sister, so we had to take them both." That's when Patti learned she had two dogs, and the house was quiet no more!

Smokey and Lovey, re-named Lady, ventured into their wonderful new life, side by side. Patti describes them, "They are so happy together... they sleep curled up on the couch during the day, often with one resting its head on the other one for support. They love to wrestle and chase each other around the house and in our big backyard just like the boys used to do. At night, they try to fit into the bed with us—it gets a little crowded. They are always together."

Patti says, "I am so grateful they came to us." We are grateful to Patti and Patrick for the gift of this happily-ever-after—for two.

Another Happy Tale

Boris: A Prince Discovered!

Boris is a cat who arrived at the APL with three, or maybe four, significant challenges. Surrendered by a Good Samaritan who found him as a stray, Boris' initial examination revealed an upper respiratory infection. He tested positive for Feline Immunodeficiency Virus (FIV), making any kind of infection a serious matter. Boris was older, around nine years old. And, he needed surgery to correct a condition that caused his eyelashes to grow inwards, potentially scratching his cornea. Regardless, Boris received the necessary eye surgery and medical care from the APL veterinary staff, followed by some TLC in a foster home. He then returned to the APL, to find his new home.

Boris' timing was good. Shortly after his return from foster care, Kristina came to the APL and asked to see the "old, fat cats," she recalls with a laugh. You see, Kristina believes strongly in the importance of animal rescue, and knew she could give a senior a loving home. When Kristina saw Boris it was love at first sight—she saw past his age and chronic health condition, and recognized him for the prince he is! But, his happily-ever-after would have to wait just a little longer; Kristina was moving to a new home in a few weeks, and needed to wait until then to adopt Boris. She visited him at the APL every few days, bringing him catnip. She was a bit nervous each time, afraid Boris might have been adopted by someone else. She "would have been devastated" she admits, had he not been there.

Boris is one smart cat. He waited for Kristina. And finally, the day came when Boris went home to his new life. He didn't waste a single moment hiding in the closet or under furniture; he set right to work claiming a favorite sleeping spot...er, spots: on the back of the couch; on the bed pillows (he'll push off anyone in his way), or in the middle of any comfortable piece of clothing Kristina is about to put on. He is, Kristina admits, "super bossy."

Boris's new life is fit for royalty. He has tennis balls to chase, a catnip stash (he meows at the drawer where it's kept), and a grandma who calls him her "grandkitty!" When Kristina discovered Boris was afraid of thunderstorms, she built him a little fort on the couch, so he can hide and feel safe. And Kristina takes Boris's FIV status in stride, being vigilant and treating any health issues promptly.

Top: Kristina and Boris sharing a hug.

In addition to the best sleeping spots, Boris claimed another spot as well, on Kristina herself! Kristina loves him so much, she got a colorful tattoo of Boris on her forearm, so he's with her wherever she goes.

Boris clearly won the most important spot of all—the one in Kristina's heart! Congratulations, Boris, on your happily-ever-after!

Making a Difference

Thank You to the Lake Erie Monsters...

...for welcoming dogs and their owners to the 8th annual Pucks & Paws event at Quicken Loans Arena. The APL was the beneficiary of the dog tickets as well as a portion of the human tickets sold for the Monsters hockey game on Sunday, April 10. The Monsters also helped the APL raise additional funds by donating a portion of the proceeds from a 50/50 raffle. In all, the APL received more than $5,100 from the event!

Another Happy Tale

Harrison: A Man's Best Friend!

Harrison is quite a catch—muscular and strong, with a broad, handsome face and big, easy grin. He loves his family and friends, and the great outdoors. You can meet him at the North Randall Fire Department, where he's one of the crew. Harrison may be hanging out around the station, playing catch in the yard, or having a snack. You'll recognize him immediately—he's the one who is never in uniform. Harrison is one happy guy.

And it's no wonder! Harrison is a young Mastiff/Plott Hound mix who came to the APL by way of the Cleveland City Kennel, through the APL's Dog Transfer Program. The Dog Transfer Program allows us to help out other shelters, including some of our neighbors in Northeast Ohio, by bringing dogs to the APL to find their new homes. Because Harrison was transferred to the APL, we don't know a lot about his past. But Harrison clearly is a live-in-the-moment guy, so the present is much more important to him. And Harrison now loves every minute of it, thanks to his "dad," a firefighter named Mike.

Mike stopped into the APL just to look at the available dogs. He didn't have any real plans to adopt that day. He walked through the kennels and was about to leave empty-handed. On his way out the door, he noticed Harrison, who was behind the adoption counter with the shelter staff and volunteers, getting a break from his kennel. Mike met with Harrison, who was playful and affectionate, and Harrison went home with Mike that day!

Harrison has been by Mike's side ever since, through thick and thin. Mike explains, "For the past year, Harrison has been my best friend. He loves Jeep rides, playing fetch, and cuddling. He loves to play and annoy his kitten brothers and sisters. Harrison loves going to work at the fire station with me; my crews really enjoy having him around. I could not ask for a better dog." And Harrison couldn't ask for a better life. Thank you, Mike, for giving Harrison his happily-ever-after!

Foster

Happy Happens at the Cleveland APL through our Foster program. The Cleveland APL's Foster Program has helped thousands of animals get a second chance at life, and we couldn't do it without the care and dedication of our foster care volunteers. Our foster volunteers provide temporary, in-home care for animals until they are ready for adoption. In 2015 approximately 74,232 hours of service were contributed by 315 volunteers, saving the lives of 1,719 animals. Of that number, 1,240 were cats and kittens; 456 were dogs and puppies and 23 were small mammals.

Thank you WKYC Channel 3 for hosting the Fifth Annual Fur-Get-Me-Not Telethon

The fifth annual Fur-Get-Me-Not Telethon aired on Friday, March 18, on WKYC Channel 3. This wonderful event was hosted by Joe Cronauer. Between 5 a.m. and 7:30 p.m., viewers saw vignettes that showcased the diverse and meaningful work the APL does to rescue, heal, nurture, adopt and advocate for animals in need.

The event brought the community together and inspired viewers to make a donation to help the more than 15,000 animals who will come through the Cleveland APL's doors this year.

We are happy to report that more than $54,000 was raised to support the life-saving work we do here at the Cleveland APL. A total of 150 people donated their time as volunteers, including 120 phone bank workers who recorded pledges from viewers who called in.

In addition, a special Channel 3 adoption promotion took place too. Adoption fees for adult cats (3 years and older) were $30 and select dogs were $30 off. A total of 22 animals—12 cats, 9 dogs and 1 rabbit—found new homes that day!

Update: Kaelin & Dixon

In May 2014, we told you the story of a tiny kitten, Dixon, who helped to heal the hearts of Connie and her family after the loss of their beloved cat. Recently, we received an update from Connie about Dixon and Connie's daughter, Kaelin.

Kaelin, now seven years old, woke up one morning with a bad headache. She told her mom that "the walls were moving." Connie rushed her to the doctor, who ordered a CT scan. That evening, Connie got the awful news: Kaelin had a mass on her brain, and needed to be admitted to the hospital immediately. Kaelin was "so brave," Connie says, and "didn't cry through any of the procedures." In fact, she only cried once—when she was missing her "cuddlebug," Dixon!

Kaelin had surgery to remove the mass, and was hospitalized for a week. Aside from the pain, the hardest part for Kaelin was being separated from Dixon. And it seems Dixon felt the same; Connie checked on Kaelin on her first night home, only to find Dixon watching over her. "Those two are soul mates," Connie says. Happily, the mass was benign, and Kaelin is on the road to recovery, with Dixon by her side. Connie explains, "He was definitely meant for our family. He is the sweetest little boy.... He knows when she needs him, and he is always there."

The Cleveland Animal Protective League lovingly cares for thousands of homeless, injured and abused animals each year. For some, their cage at the APL, complete with a warm bed, toys, plenty of food and water, and lots of TLC, is the only "home" they have ever known.
